

Dadul Samtan's life

taken from le journal des entreprises

Dadul was born in a small village in the valley of Shana at the bottom of Himalaya. The valley is located in the region of Ladakh. The temperature reaches minus 22 degrees in winter and there's not internet. His school was under a tree. Because of cold temperatures the school closed between December and March. He left his family to become a Buddhist and to study. So he join monastery in Tibet's mountains. Then he saw his first vehicle at the age of 8. At he discovered plane to go to Delhi. He felt the passage between rural and urban atmosphere. He was surprise by the crowd. At 20, he left his monastic life. A few moment his father died and so he became the chef of the family. He has to organize the marriage of his sister. The event welcomed 300 guest during 3 days. In 1947 the British left India and Pakistan was created. Massacre took place in border between Pakistan and India more precise in the region of Cachemire. After Dadul have to help India army. There are conflicts between India and China. The Erasmus program to allow to travel around the world. He gets many friends of different origin (spanish,chinease,and american). To return to his village, there were 175 family in the Valley of Shana. Now there is a school in his village and he create LUNGTA association.

taken from Tara voyage

Their goal is to provide assistance to needy families and to provide equipment to the schools. Thanks to this trip he speaks 5 languages. Since 2009 Dadul has lived in Bordeaux.

