

A vision of India

India is a country which is located on the Asian continent. First we will talk about the economy of India, then the perception of India and we will finish with a general conclusion about India. In India there are 1,49 billion inhabitants in 2026. The country is to be composed of a urban population : 410 million inhabitants. However in India there are 417, 037, 606 million electors. So we can supposed that is a majority of urban population who votes. The two cities whose are the most populated are Delhi : 25 million and Mumbai : 21 millions. Furthermore in India these 1652 languages whose 17 oficals, 122 are spoken by more than 10 000 and 30 are spoken by more than 1 million.

For the people India is a country distant, inert, exotic and tragic. Five elements to understand India : India is a synonym of diversity. India is a depth of culture. India is a land of minorities. India is a interaction with rural and urban. India is a coexistence of poverty, spirituality and modernity. Futhere more, India there are a lot of buldings, skyscrapers, slums and the miserity in India is natural and normal.

Finally there school is free but isn't binging like France and cities people must walk kilometers to have water and in other cities like Belhi there are studiant.

You must know the cow is like a mother for Indians.
